

Sanitized - Approved For Release : CIA-RDP70-00058R000300040041-9

MIAMI HERALD

APR 2 1964

CPYRGHT

Dulles Eyes Cold War...

CPYRGHT

TAMPA — (AP) —

Dulles says the United States is "preparing to fight the war that will not come, and we are not preparing to fight the war that is already coming close to our shores."

The former head of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency said the nation is prepared to meet the threat of a nuclear war, but has done little to prevent a war of subversion.

The Washington attorney told 700 persons attending the annual dinner of the Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce that Nikita Khrushchev has warned that his chosen instrument to bury the free world is the subversive "war of liberation."

"Khrushchev has said this is my main tactic. I don't want a hot war," said Dulles.

"Khrushchev has traced out in Cuba the perimeters of a safe operation. He knows how far he can go."

"This is a peril we must work on," Dulles said, "and we must take the lead."

He proposed a three-point policy for dealing with "the Communist orchestra of subversion."

The United States should promote the social, economic and political evolution within the Communist bloc, including "all measures calculated to bring to the peoples of the Communist world an understanding of what the Free World has to offer," he said.

The U.S. should carry on trade with the bloc, he said, remembering always that "we cannot trust them to give up their desire and their purpose to undermine us . . . They will not compromise."

Secondly, he said, the United States should "contribute in every way towards the disintegration of the once monolithic Communist movement" that is exemplified by Peiping's break with Moscow.

And finally, said Dulles, "we should equip ourselves to deal effectively with the major present weapon in the arsenal of communism, its wars of liberations, of revolution and of socialism directed particularly against the weaker members of the free world."

Dulles, a member of the seven-man commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy, was introduced by Gov. Farris Bryant. The governor called him "a man whose life is a romance."